Who are the Maryland Re-entry Navigators?

Maryland Re-entry Navigators are team of employment specialists located within the American Job Centers (AJCs) across the state of Maryland. Their role is to connect justice-involved job seekers with businesses. For example, they meet with pre-release individuals in State correctional facilities to learn how they can be of use in connecting to employment and training opportunities. They also meet with customers after release, to help ease the difficulty of becoming re-employed. Lastly, they continually establish a network of employer contacts who are interested in hiring their clients.

There are five Navigators regionally and can be accessible near your location. Contact information is as follows:

What is the Maryland Workforce Exchange (MWE)?

The MWE is an online service connecting job seekers, employers, and employment specialists. Regardless of your experience using a computer, you can access many valuable tools on the MWE. You are encouraged to visit mwejobs.maryland.gov, where you can:

- Create and send résumés to employers;
- Assess your job skills, interests, and goals;
- Review available jobs and apply online;
- Search for job postings that match your skills;
- Learn about services and benefits for which you may be eligible; and
- Research salaries and number of job openings in your area.

How do Maryland Registered Apprenticeships work?

Registered apprenticeships are jobs where workers “earn and learn.” While on the job, employees receive one-on-one training from a skilled craftsperson as well as classroom instruction. An apprentice is “sponsored” by an employer or association and is paid according to a progressive pay scale.

You can apprentice for many occupations such as electrician, carpenter, computer programmer, medical assistant, landscaper, and many others. Visit labor.maryland.gov/employment/appr, and click on the big blue “Apprenticeship Locator” button for many opportunities in your county. The button looks like the graphic below:

Where are the Maryland AJCs (previously called One Stop Career Centers)?

AJCs are located throughout Maryland. Staff there can help you with the following:

- Federal Bonding and Expungement information;
- Workshops in career readiness, résumé writing, interviewing, etc.;
- Referrals to training and apprenticeships;
- One-on-one career assistance; and
- Access to hiring events and job fairs; and
- Resource Centers with computers, printers, copiers, fax machines, and telephones.
